What is the purpose of the campaign toolkit?

The campaign toolkit provides all the basic visual elements for a campaign so that you can customize the graphics and images you're planning to share with your community with a consistent, professional design.

Logo colors

We always publish a full-color or primary version of the campaign logo.

When appropriate, we also include a light-color or secondary version of the campaign logo. This works well with darker backgrounds.

Logo colors

Full-color version

- Do use the full-color version over light backgrounds that are not competing with the colors in the logo.
- Do not use the full-color version over dark backgrounds and images with a busy background. Always make sure the logo has a good contrast with the background.

Light-color version

- Do use the light version of the logo over dark backgrounds or images that may have a busy background.
- Do not use the light version over light backgrounds as it lacks contrast and visually disappears.

Logo lockups

For some campaigns, we'll also include two different logo lockup options - usually a horizontal and stacked version.

These different lockups provide flexibility for layout.

horizontal lockup

stacked lockup

Logo lockups

Horizontal version

- Do use the horizontal version in a horizontally wide clean space that does not interfere with the visual focus of the background image.
- Do not use the horizontal version in a narrow space, as this can create cluttered images.

Logo lockups

Stacked version

- Do use the stacked version in a narrow, square space, making sure it has clean space around it. This will help you avoid cluttered images.
- Do not use the stacked version in a horizontally wide or short space as this makes the logo hard to read and creates undesired negative space.

How to select images

Relatable images

Use photographs to make your content more human and relatable, showing your community in positive and dignified way.

High resolution

Select high quality images that will improve your chances to engage your audiences (and their scrolling thumbs).

Clear focus

Avoid covering faces with the campaign logo or any additional text.

What about color?

Please keep in mind, each campaign has its own color palette.

If you're adding another color, make sure that the color palette of your graphics doesn't have more than 3 colors and that your colors compliment the colors in the logo.

Keep it simple. Be mindful of spaces.

- Don't be afraid to leave blank, white/clear space in your design, this will help you avoid cluttered images.
- Don't add lots of effects like drop shadows, glows, etc. or you'll quickly end up with a bloated and hard-to-read image.

A group of approximately ten young women are riding bicycles along a dirt road. They are dressed in light-colored, possibly school-related, clothing. The image is overlaid with a solid green tint. In the lower right portion of the image, the text "great partner" is written in a white, lowercase, sans-serif font. Below this, the words "campaign graphics" are written in a larger, bold, white, lowercase, sans-serif font.

A group of smiling children, likely of South Asian descent, are shown from the chest up. They are all wearing white shirts. Several of the children have their hands raised in front of them, with fingers spread, as if they are participating in a group activity or cheering. The background is slightly blurred, showing more children and what appears to be an outdoor setting.
